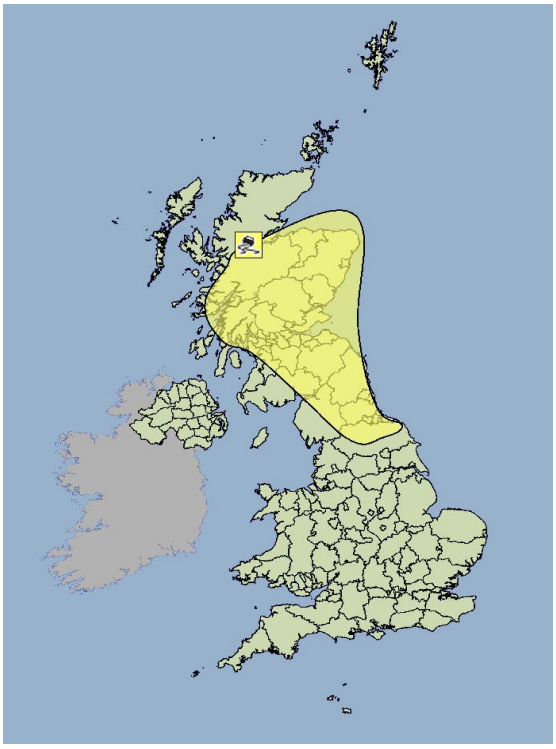
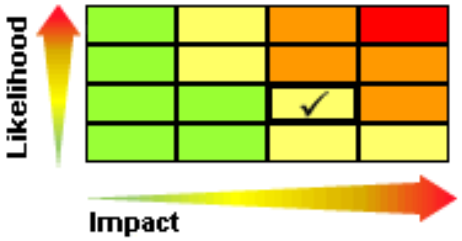
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Following falling rain, sleet and snow during Friday clear spells will develop with ground temperatures falling leading to icy stretches forming, particularly where lying snow melts and then refreezes. Further wintry showers could also give some fresh snowfalls over Scotland, mainly in the early evening, while another band of rain arriving Saturday morning could bring some snow to higher routes north of the Central Belt.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 15:00 on Fri, 29th Dec 2017 until 12:00 on Sat, 30th Dec 2017

Icy stretches are expected to form on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths over much of Scotland and northern England. Further snow showers may also give a further 1-3cm in places over Scotland, mainly on high ground from the Central Belt northwards.

Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces are likely. Longer journey times and some road closures are possible with some bus and train services perhaps delayed.
